WORLD NEWS

President of Turkey Recep Tayyip Erdoğan signed the decision to renew the presidential and parliamentary elections on 14 May. The decision was published in the duplicate issue of the Official Gazette.

Erdoğan signed the decision to renew the elections on 14 May. The decision entered into force by being published in the duplicate issue of the Official Gazette.

"With the authorization given by Article 116 of our Constitution, I signed the decision to renew the elections on May 14, which should be held on June 18, 2023," Erdoğan said.

Erdoğan stated that after the relevant decision is published in the Official Gazette, the Supreme Election Board (YSK) will start the 2-month election calendar.

Israelis have been protesting for weeks against the government's controversial judicial arrangement, despite Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's announcement of delaying it.

Israelis, who hold mass demonstrations across the country every Saturday evening, against the judicial regulation of the extreme right-wing coalition government led by Netanyahu, again went down to the squares.

Tens of thousands of Israelis participated in the demonstrations in cities such as West Jerusalem, Haifa, Birüssebi, Nes Ziona and Rehovot, especially Tel Aviv.

The demonstrations were held in the shadow of the region's spiral of violence after Israeli forces attacked the Masjid al-Aqsa and the Muslims worshipping there during Ramadan.

This week, events that increased tensions in the region, such as the firing of rockets from Lebanon to Israel against the Israeli forces' raids on Masjid al-Aqsa, and the Israeli army's response to Gaza by airstrikes, were witnessed.

While protesting groups condemn the recent increasing attacks against Israelis, they argue that Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and the coalition government led by him are responsible for the current security crisis in the country.

On February 6, 2023, an earthquake with a magnitude of 7.8 and 7.6 occurred, the epicenter of which was Kahramanmaraş Turkey. The earthquake, which affected 11 provinces in Turkey, also caused loss of life in Syria. While it was announced that the number of people who lost their lives in the earthquake was more than 50,000, the number of injured was expressed in the hundreds of thousands.

International Organizations and all the countries of the world tried to help the earthquake in Turkey. The Turkish nation has published a letter of thanks to friendly countries for the help.

The world's first SİHA ship, TCG Anadolu, entered the service of the Turkish navy with a ceremony. With a length of 231 meters and a width of 32 meters, 11 SİHAs can be deployed on the flight deck of TCG Anadolu, and 30 SİHAs can be carried in its hangar. After the delivery ceremony of TCG Anadolu, metal cutting of 3 new MİLGEM frigates was carried out.

Italy took new measures within the scope of combating the ongoing influx of irregular migrants through the Mediterranean.

At the suggestion of Nello Musumeci, Minister of Civil Protection and Maritime Policies of Italy, the government declared a state of emergency for 6 months across the country in order to combat extraordinary illegal immigrant attempts in the Mediterranean Sea.

Noting that they submitted the proposal upon the request of Interior Minister Matteo Piantedosi, Minister Musumeci said, "We gladly fulfilled the request of our Minister of Interior, who is well aware of the seriousness of these illegal immigration attempts, which amount to 300 percent."

With the state of emergency, it is aimed to provide a more effective and timely response in terms of the management of irregular migrants and their accommodation on national soil.

On the other hand, since last Friday, Italian Coast Guard teams have rescued over 2,700 irregular migrants.
